New accommodation, restaurant, and innovative food venue openings

Langdale Chase hotel, Windermere
Late 2023
The Langdale Chase in Windermere will reopen in autumn 2023 after extensive refurbishments. Located right on the shores of Lake Windermere, the hotel offers 30 individually designed bedrooms. Modern materials were used for the renovation to create a contemporary space within the Victorian villa. Executive chef Michael Cole will be heading up the two-AA-rosette restaurant at the hotel and deliver classic British cuisine inspired by the surroundings together with a passionate team.

Luxury Lodges at Moor Hall, Aughton
Late 2023
Moor Hall is launching seven luxury lodges to connect guests with nature and provide the ultimate luxury foodie gateway. Each lodge is located within the woodlands of their grounds and will feature an outdoor terrace. Moor Hall Restaurant holds two Michelin Stars and their sister restaurant, The Barn which is also located within the grounds, was awarded a Michelin Star in 2022. Within the village of Aughton, visitors can find a third Michelin Star restaurant, So-lo.

Una St Ives, St Ives
Late 2023
Situated in the picturesque Carbis Bay area on the North coast of Cornwall, the relaxed and stylish holiday resort Una St Ives will launch high-end villas from late 2023. The interior of the villas will be elegant and contemporary, each with its own private hot tub. The resort includes a spa, leisure club, a restaurant and a lido swimming pool with alfresco dining options.

The BoTree, London
Late 2023
Opening its doors later this year, the BoTree Hotel will offer guests a world-class experience. Settling quietly into the London neighbourhoods of Marylebone and Mayfair, get ready to meet a sophisticated blend of luxury and elegance.

Ruby Stella, London
February 2024
Inspired by the literary legacy of Charles Dickens, the new Ruby Stella hotel will open in Clerkenwell, London – the district where the world-famous author wrote Oliver Twist. This will be Ruby Hotels’ third London property, joining Ruby Lucy in Waterloo and Ruby Zoe in Notting Hill – each one with a unique and playful character. At Stella, expect a sumptuous bar-turned-library (open 24-hours), plush furnishings and minimalist-yet-luxe bedrooms, all styled with book-themed curios. All within a few minutes’ walk to Farringdon station.

The Store, Oxford
February 2024
Located on Broad Street in the historic Boswells department store, The Store will feature 101 bedrooms inspired by the building’s former life: think king size beds, plush velvet furnishings, spacious bathrooms and bespoke artworks. Its restaurant, Treadwell, will champion local and sustainably sourced produce, infused with the UK’s multicultural influences. As well as a stylish ground-floor bar and fireside snug, the hotel will also feature The Roof – an intimate rooftop bar and outdoor terrace, overlooking Oxford’s famous ‘dreaming spires’.

TreeDwellers, Cotswolds
March 2024
Nestled within ancient woodland on the Cornbury Park Estate you’ll find seven new eco-minded treehouses, each designed to offer guests an escape from the everyday and a reconnection with nature. The accommodation is intended to blend into the spectacular Cotswolds landscape, and the stylish interiors feature soothing colours, soft fabrics and tactile textures to encourage relaxation.
art’otel Hoxton, London

Mollie’s, Manchester
Early 2024
Following Mollie’s Oxfordshire and Bristol, Mollie’s Manchester will be the latest offering opening its doors in early 2024. From the team behind Soho House, the motel-diner will be at the historic site of the former Granada Studios in the St John's neighbourhood, once home to the iconic television show Coronation Street. The hotel will feature 140 rooms, a 164-cover diner restaurant, a lounge bar with live music, and a heated outdoor terrace with a pool.

Treehouse Hotel Manchester, Manchester
April 2024
Treehouse Hotel Manchester, the hotel brand's second UK location, will open on Deansgate after an extensive redevelopment of a former hotel. With 224 bedrooms and a rooftop terrace offering panoramic views, the hotel will feature pet-friendly rooms and a line-up of food and drinks curated by celebrated Manchester chefs, including Luke Cowdrey, Justin Crawford, Mary-Ellen McTague, and Sam Grainger.

Cambridge Street Collective, Sheffield
Spring 2024
Cambridge Street Collective will be a brand-new trailblazing food hall and cookery class space, located right in the heart of Sheffield. Set over three floors, the culturally diverse food destination will be home to over 24 kitchens, a cookery school and a bakery, as well as a mix of traditional, Asian and rooftop bars.

Black Sheep, London
Spring 2024
After a successful pop up in London in July 2023, Black Sheep Restaurant from Hong Kong will open their first international restaurant in the capital in spring next year. The concept is yet to be released, though the chain is known for telling stories through food and creating unique restaurants with heart. The vision of the founder, Syed Asim Hussain, is “to rewrite the rules and elevate the definition of what hospitality is”.

Soho House, Manchester
Spring 2024
Soho House is set to open its first property in the north of England, encompassing the upper three floors of Manchester’s former Granada Studios building – located within the emerging St John’s neighbourhood. The building, which is also home to Aviva Studios, is both one of Manchester’s most iconic locations and an exciting up-and-coming destination. There will be a rooftop pool, workspaces that transform into a club as night falls, dining rooms and lounge areas – all with Soho House’s signature creative vibe.

No.124 Kings Road, Brighton
Summer 2024
No.124 Kings Road Brighton will be housed inside the Regency-style, part-Grade II-listed Georgian building, offering seriously comfortable bedrooms, curious details, and genuinely welcoming, happy people. Swimmers can be in the water in a hop, shoppers can hit The Lanes in minutes, and lovers of all thing’s kitsch can be on the pier and in its arcades in next-to-no time.

The Bailiffgate, Alnwick
Summer 2024
Located in the heart of the town right next to Alnwick castle, the new Bailiffgate Hotel will offer 48 bedrooms and apartments. Situated in a magnificent Georgian house linked to a new five storey building, guests can overlook the Barbican entrance to the castle from the property. The hotel will boast modern yet classic interiors, bright open spaces and a wealth of natural light.

THE PIG-on the Farm, Warwickshire
December 2024

THE PIG-on the Farm will be the latest property to join THE PIG’s portfolio of laid-back luxury boutique hotels with a culinary focus – known as ‘restaurants with rooms’. THE PIG-on the Farm will consist of a mid-16th Century listed stone-built farmhouse surrounded by barns, stables and outbuildings. The new location will champion THE PIG’s famed 25-mile menu and sustainable practices, including on-site food production and sourcing from local suppliers. The estate spans 53 acres and is stepped in history being previously owned by the Mordaunt family and includes part of a deserted Medieval village to the southeast of the house.

Guinness Microbrewery, London
Winter 2024

One of London’s most eagerly awaited new openings, Guinness is set to launch a microbrewery, open-fire kitchen and rooftop bar at Old Brewer’s Yard, in the heart of Covent Garden. The site’s brewing roots can be traced back to 1722, and its fresh refurbishment will make it a hub for drinking, dining, entertainment and learning once again – all within an impressive 4,600 square metre venue. As well as offering brewery tours with Guinness experts, it will host events in a central covered courtyard, special edition souvenirs in its shops, and the chance to try exclusive new stouts. Cheers to that!

The Newman, London
Winter 2024

Situated on Newman Street in Fitzrovia, The Newman will open in late 2024 to become a new 81-roomed hotel – featuring a European brasserie, cocktail bar and wellness floor. Breathing new life into its heritage Victorian setting, the design will exude international luxury with a polished, bold style. The spa will be influenced by Nordic simplicity, and feature hot and cold experience cabins, a salt therapy room and hydrotherapy pool.

The Other House Covent Garden, London
Winter 2024
